BLAME SLIPPERY HIGHWAYS FOR AUTO ACCIDENTS

Attempt to Aid Victim of One Accident Causes Another

Slippery highways have resulted in several accidents during the past few days.

An attempt to stop and aid a motorist whose car was overturned in the ditch at the roadside caused a second accident in which automobiles driven by Clayton Bartlett, Antioch, and Edward A. Davis, Libertyville, collided Wednesday morning on Highway 21 south of Loom Lake corner.

Bartlett, who is principal of the Lake Villa Grade school, was driving south, accompanied by his wife, the former Miss Catherine Smith, who is teaching in the Libertyville grade school.

Just south of Loom Lake corner they saw an automobile overturned in the ditch. The driver, Jacques Koppen, who is employed in the Lake Villa bank, was endeavoring to flag down passing motorists for aid.

As Bartlett applied the brakes, his car began to swing in circles and made several complete turns before bringing up against the rear of an automobile in which Davis was driving north to Antioch, where he is employed in the Pickard pottery plant.

Davis, who suffered a cut chin, was brought to Antioch by the rescue truck for examination by a physician. The occupants of both cars were shaken and bruised, and both automobiles were badly damaged.

Koppen received a wrenched back, and the sides and roof of his car were damaged.

Four occupants of a CCC truck which was struck by a Chicago bound passenger train at the Rand road crossing north of Fox Lake Saturday morning were removed to the Fort Sheridan hospital for treatment.

CCC Men Injured
They were Capt. Andrew Pollard, R. F. Monaghan, Louis Nadeau and Harold Kelly. Monaghan, who received severe back injuries, was believed to be the most seriously injured.

An oil truck slid into a ditch on Highway 83, about half-way between Antioch and Salem, Wednesday morning.

An automobile driven by Dr. A. N. Berke of Antioch was badly damaged when a Gurnee motorist lost control of his car and crashed into that of the Antioch physician, Saturday morning at the Highway 41 and Grand avenue intersection. Dr. Berke was driving east on Grand avenue when he observed that a car approaching from the east had gone out of control on the slippery highway and was swaying from side to side. Berke received severe bruises, and cuts were sustained by a passenger in the other car.

Both the cab and trailer of a large milk truck operated by Henry J. Rentner were damaged when the truck skidded and "jack-knifed" on Highway 21 between Lake Villa and Grayslake yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The truck was Chicago-bound at the time. The driver was uninjured.

A number of passenger cars were also towed in to local and nearby garages during the day for the repair of damages resulting from skids into ditches or minor collisions due to the icy condition of the roads.

Occupants of the car driven by Hazel Tweed of Lake Villa were treated at a Waukegan hospital for cuts and bruises received when their car skidded into the base of a traffic light at Highway 41 and Belvidere road. Body bruises were sustained by T. P. Walsh of Grayslake when his car skidded and rolled over into a ditch on Belvidere road near Grayslake.

21 Years Milk Supply Produced by One Cow

Brattleboro, Vt. — January 26 — Enough milk to amply provide for a new-born baby until he is old enough to vote, has been produced in but one year by a Holstein cow owned by E. H. Ravenscroft, Glencoe, Ill., whose dairy farm is at Antioch, the Holstein-Friesian association of America reports.

Carnation Inka Josephine Bracelet is the registered name of this Holstein. Her year's production is 17,772 pounds of milk with 635.1 pounds of butterfat. The record was made under supervision of University of Illinois and the Holstein-Friesian association of America.

Well, in These Days—Ain't That News?

"Well, there isn't much to report. We just met and paid the bills," said Village President George B. Bartlett in response to queries as to what the Antioch council did at its meeting Tuesday evening in the village hall.

Daylight Saving Time Will Commence Monday

In keeping with the nation-wide war emergency program, Antioch will start observing daylight saving time Monday, Feb. 9. Clocks will be set one hour ahead the previous night.

Advanced Red Cross Examinations Given

Examinations for certificates for the advanced course in Red Cross first aid were passed last Wednesday evening by L. E. Murrie, George Bartlett, Jr., Henry Quedenfeld, Charles Larson, Fred S. Yates, Edward Frazier, W. E. Kufalk, Jacob Drom, Jr., Morris Pickus, and D. E. Sheehan, all of Antioch, and Dr. T. H. Wooley, Union Grove, Wis.

Examinations were given by First Lieutenant Herman Rosing of the Antioch rescue squad.

The class was trained by Harry Greenlee.

Graduates of the class were complimented by Herman Holjek, captain of the rescue squad and director of the Red Cross training in western Lake county, on their fine showing.

Numerous other classes in Red Cross first aid methods are being trained in Antioch and surrounding communities, and the qualified instructors of this region have given generously of their time and ability in order to make these classes possible.

Farm Bureau To Hold Annual Meeting Feb. 14

The Lake County Farm Bureau will hold its annual meeting on Saturday, Feb. 14, starting at 10:00 a. m. at the Grayslake Grade school in Grayslake. The main address of the day will be delivered by Donald Kirkpatrick, legal counsel of the Illinois Agricultural association.

This meeting marks the first annual meeting for the new farm adviser, Ray T. Nicholas, who started his duties in Lake county on April 1. Mr. Nicholas will have an interesting report to make regarding his activities since coming to Lake county.

LOCAL GAS STATIONS TO CLOSE AT 7 P. M. EXCEPT SATURDAY

Seven o'clock p. m. will be the closing time of gas service stations in Antioch and vicinity daily except Saturday, according to a unanimous agreement reached by station operators at a meeting in the village hall last night. The service stations will remain open on Saturday night until 9:00 o'clock.

The early closing agreement is in line with similar actions taken by service station operators in other localities, and is a measure to conserve power as an aid to national defense. The shorter hours will result in little or no inconvenience to the general public, the operators say, as it is an easy matter for motorists to buy the fuel they need before closing time.

Emergency vehicles, such as fire trucks, ambulances, rescue trucks and physicians' automobiles will be supplied at any time.

So, it's an easy rule to follow—if you're going anywhere and don't want to get caught short, buy your gasoline before 7 p. m.

Twelve-piece Band to Play for Military Ball

Antioch Legion Post No. 748 contracted this week for a 12-piece band to play at the annual Military Ball, to be held Saturday evening, Feb. 21, at Antioch High school.

Further plans for the ball will be made at a meeting this evening in the Legion clubrooms.

Sunday afternoon the Legionnaires were hosts to the Sons of the Legion at a theater matinee performance, following a meeting at which plans for the Sons of the Legion and drum corps for the coming months were discussed.

HOME BUREAU WOMEN ATTEND FARM & HOME WEEK AT UNIVERSITY

Mrs. Curtis Wells and Mrs. George White are in attendance this week at the Farm and Home Week program being held at the University of Illinois in Urbana. The sessions will close on Friday.

The women were elected delegates to attend the sessions of the state organization at the last meeting of the Antioch Unit at the home of Mrs. L. J. Lutterman, which was the January meeting of the unit and very interesting one, according to members. Following the call to order by the unit chairman, Mrs. C. L. Kutil, the group heard the reading of the minutes of the preceding meeting and also the report of the treasurer.

Mrs. Helen Volk, Home Adviser, gave the lesson on "Fish in the Menu," using haddock for her first demonstration of "Fish Baked in Milk." Her second demonstration, using ocean perch, was "Baked Fish with Tartare Sauce." The entire group enjoyed the fish after the demonstration.

An all day meeting with pot luck dinner will be held on Feb. 11, at the home of Mrs. Heick, on Little Silver Lake road. The lesson on "Upholstering" will be given by Mrs. Heick, Miss Schmidt and Mrs. Kutil.

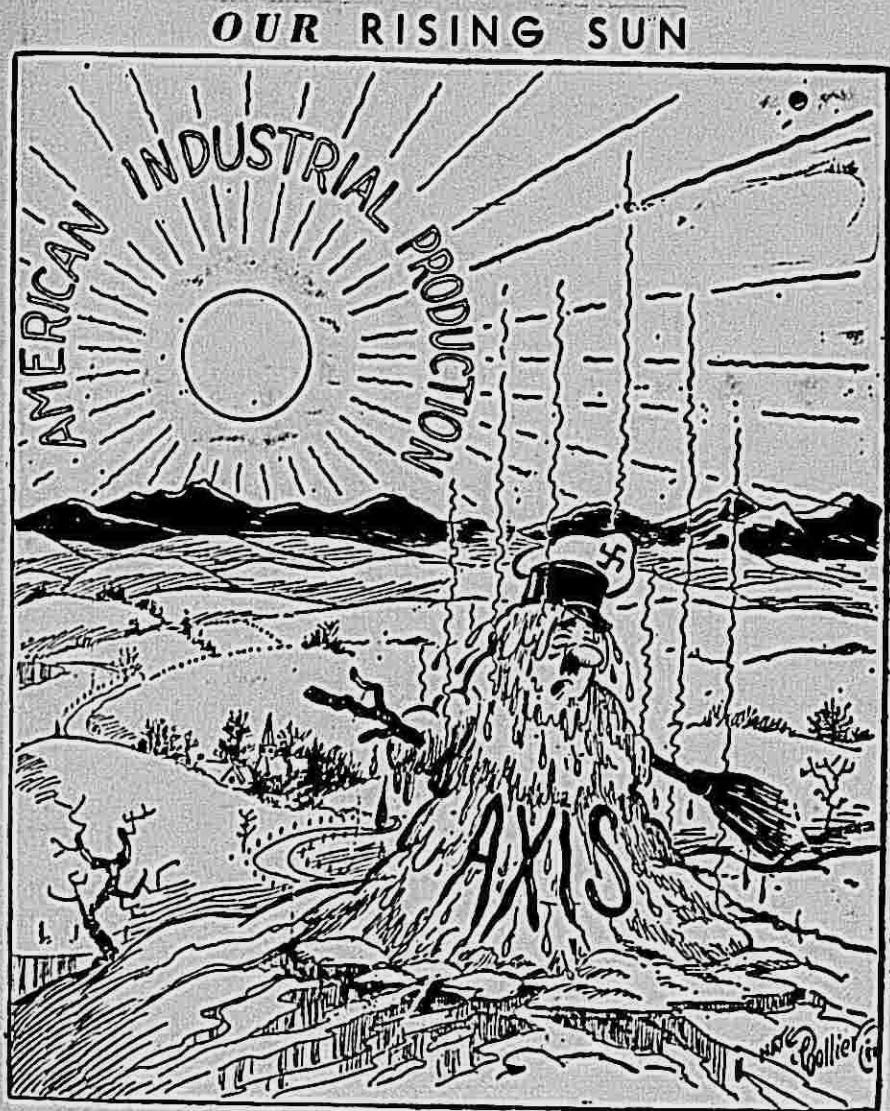

The December meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Kutil with a lighted Christmas tree the center of attraction. Mrs. Winslow gave the lesson on "Buying Linens," after which a grab bag was enjoyed, as a means of helping the Unit to make money for their necessary expenses.

Two new members joined the unit. Christmas songs were sung around the tree and gifts were exchanged. Holiday cakes and cookies were served by the hostess.

Chairman Bartlett Thanks Citizens for Red Cross Donations

I wish to thank each and every contributor who helped to make the Red Cross Emergency drive the success it proved to be in Antioch township; and I am grateful also to the loyal co-workers who served on the committee. We realize that a great many contributions were made through self-sacrifice—which exemplifies the true American spirit in time of need. We have reason to feel proud of the response made by our citizens to this call, and I am glad to have had a part in this most splendid tribute to American democracy.

Library Board Sponsors Collection of Books for Service Men

The Antioch Township library board is sponsoring local participation in the "Victory Book Campaign" which has been carried on throughout the nation. The local campaign will open Monday, Feb. 9.

Thieves Strip Ice Boats at Fox Lake

A Fox Lake reader writes that ice-boat enthusiasts in that vicinity have been losing parts and equipment from their boats recently. "The thieves," the letter states, "apparently are making an ice boat of their own—judging from the parts taken. A set of steel runners, check spring and an aircraft cable were the parts taken."

"NO SLATE" FOR 1942 CANDIDATES, COMMITTEE SAYS

G. O. P. Says Every Man for Himself; Filing Starts Saturday

Every man for himself "and bid the devil take the hindmost" aptly describes the attitude of the Lake County Republican Central committee and other political leaders regarding the primary election contests that will get under way in dead earnest this Saturday with the filing of candidates' petitions with the county clerk.

"The county committee makes no endorsements of candidates," an authorized spokesman told the News today. It was admitted, however, that individual members of the group may, and probably will give their support to some of the office-seekers.

Heading the county G. O. P. candidates, and who probably will be one of the first to file, is County Judge Perry L. Persons, dean of county office holders who has presided over the county court for 32 years and now seeks another four-year term.

Judge Persons' name has become almost synonymous with the county judgeship, so regularly has his name appeared on the ballot every fourth year, and his "right" to hold office has not been successfully challenged for over three decades, although Harry Hall, present state's attorney, nearly turned the trick in 1934 when he fell a scant 400 votes short of defeating the veteran jurist. Judge Persons could have retired on pension several years ago, but the $6,000 salary and the judge's love for work has provided sufficient inspiration to him to "carry on."

A trio of likely candidates have been mentioned as possible opponents for Judge Persons, including Attorneys Paul Doolen, Herman C. Litchfield and Clarence Brown. Smart politics, according to id campaigners will indicate that only one entrant should emerge as the candidate opposing the incumbent if there is to be hope of victory—and there would be hope in a two-way race for the G. O. P. nomination, according to many Lake county Republican leaders.

Opposition for Nelson

Another Republican candidate slated to have strong opposition is Allen J. Nelson, who seeks re-election as clerk of the probate court. The opposing candidate is said to be Warren G. Siver, past commander of the Homer Dahlinger post of the American Legion. "Bud" Siver is secretary-treasurer of the Siver Hardware company of Waukegan.

Nelson, a "graduate" of the county treasurer's office where he served as chief clerk and later as county treasurer, before being elected to his present post as probate clerk, has always had strong organization support in his campaigns for office—a factor which is said will be lacking in his forthcoming campaign for re-nomination and election.

Fredbeck for Treasurer

Gustaf Fredbeck, deputy county treasurer under Treasurer Garfield Leaf, is the only known G. O. P. candidate to succeed his chief.

Walter Atkinson, chief deputy sheriff, is expected to be one of the early ones to file his petition for sheriff to succeed Sheriff Thomas E. Kennedy. Others mentioned for the sheriff job are Lester Tiffany, former sheriff, Chief John DeSmith of the, Highwood police, and Jack Meunier of Waukegan.

County Superintendent of Schools W. C. Petty, Probate Judge Martin C. Decker and County Clerk Jay B. Morse are thus far unopposed for re-election.

Meanwhile Lake County Democrats under the able leadership of Attorney J. E. Bairstow are endeavoring to file a full ticket of candidates for county offices, and they also desire to elect strong candidates for the state legislature to oppose the Republican incumbents. Representatives Nick Keller and Harold D. Kelsey.

Among the Democrats mentioned as possible candidates are the incumbent, Tom Bogler of McHenry, Walter Koziol of North Chicago, Charles Hayes of Harvard and Theo. Rensch of Zion. Koziol and Hayes have made unsuccessful races for the legislature in the past.

The Republican candidates in the eighth district, comprising Lake, McHenry and Boone counties, include Keller and Kelsey, William J. Smith, of Waukegan, Bruno Stanczak, North Chicago, Mayor Miller, Marengo, Willis Overholser, Libertyville, and C. Russell Allen of Woodstock.

Paddock for Congress

Former congressman from the 10th district, Ralph E. Church, returned to the local political scene this week to announce his candidacy for representative in congress to oppose Representative (Answers on page 8)

This Scrap on Our Hands

Five hundred pounds of scrap rubber are needed for every medium tank. A battleship may contain as much as 9,000 tons of scrap metal. Ten thousand tons of waste paper will be needed this year to make ammunition containers alone. Three miles of copper wire go into a modern bomber.

Facts like these make it clear why we Americans must begin to save materials as we never have before. Government officials say that salvage operations will play an important part in winning the war. Our industries are expanding at such a rate that they will need vast quantities of scrap to keep them going full blast, making weapons, and it's up to us to see that they get it.

Salvage campaigns are being organized throughout the country to gather material of this kind. Every one of us can help in these collection drives. Every one of us has scrap of some sort that he can contribute. If you've been saving things just in case they might come in handy, they might come in handy now for Uncle Sam. And if you haven't been saving, now is the time to start.

One America

"We face a period of consumer rationing of every article which requires an appreciable quantity of strategic raw materials.

"We've barely begun to sacrifice, and while it may find us soft at first, we've come from strong forebears, and there is no fear in my mind that Americans can take it."

That's straight talking, and it comes from William

P. Witherow, President of the National Association of Manufacturers, a man in the position to know what he's talking about. In a recent speech he warned us Americans of the trials ahead, and he called for unlimited cooperation "in deed, in fact, and in every action" to meet the test.

"Half-baked sophistries must be out for the duration. This war is no pink tea or social bazaar."

"Speed of production is the essence of victory. The rules of the game can not be changed if we are not to encourage defeat."

"For us there is just one America, and as one people we must protect that land of free men against the encroachment of enemies of freedom—armed or otherwise—so that these United States and all they symbolize may endure for us and our posterity."

American Anniversary

What are we Americans fighting for? We read a lot these days about our way of life and the necessity of preserving it. But what is our way of life? What does it mean in terms of those little every day liberties that we all know, and sometimes all forget? Here in America freedom is as familiar to us as the homes we knew as children, and like safe and trusting children, we often take it for granted, not thinking what it means.

Without showing a tank or a bomber, a map or a battle, a new movie that has just been released brings home the meaning of this freedom that Americans are sweating, fighting and dying to preserve. Called "American Anniversary," it traces 20 years in the life of an immigrant who, like so many millions before him, came to America and was able to work himself up to a position of dignity and respect in his town.

The picture, which was made by the National Association of Manufacturers, dramatizes the simple rights and opportunities that our system of democratic government and free enterprise makes possible—rights and opportunities that have made America a legend of hope for oppressed people everywhere, rights and opportunities that we must make up our minds to preserve, no matter what the cost.

Explosives Ahead Of World War Peak

Capacity of U. S. Plants Is Increasing Steadily.

WASHINGTON. — United States plants are already producing more explosives than were made at the peak of production in the last war, and further capacity is under construction, according to traders in the chemical field, who said that vast quantities of chemical materials normally used for production of civilian goods of all kinds were now being devoted to powder output.

Toluol, basic ingredient in trinitrotoluol, the famed TNT, is being made synthetically from a petroleum base in two large plants erected specifically for the defense program, and chemical experts said that it had been expected originally that these plants, together with others under construction, would supply all the toluol needed.

Recently, however, largely because of lease-lend shipments to anti-Axis powers, the United States government has called upon the natural toluol industry to turn over 70 per cent of its production for explosives. Toluol is a by-product of coal, and is derived from the coke-oven process of steelmaking.

A large part of recent purchases have gone to Russia for processing in explosive plants.

Russia also has taken large quantities of picric acid for production of explosives. This material, which we used in large amounts in World War I for explosives production, was diverted to other uses during the peace interval, and its use here for explosives was not resumed because we have turned to use of smokeless powder. Principal use of picric acid here has been in production of plastics.

Sequoia Peaks Receive

Names of Scientists

PORTERVILLE, CALIF. — The names of four renowned scientists have been given to major features in the Sequoia National park.

J. E. Elliott, park supervisor, said the U. S. board on geographical names approved national park service recommendations for naming the features.

Four of the names were given to mountain summits, all more than 13,000 feet high, none of which is more than three miles from Mount Whitney, highest point in the United States. The summits were named Mounts Chamberlain, Hale, Newcomb and Pickering in honor of the famous scientists.

George Ellery Hale, for whom one of the features was called, organized the Kentwood, Yerkes and Mount Wilson observatories.

A high elevation between Rock and Golden Trout creeks in the park was named Boreal Plateau because plant life on the high, wind-swept area is similar to that found in the Arctic regions.

Elliott said the highest pass over which a saddle horse trail passes in the country, 13,000 feet, was named Trail Crest. It is a sag in the main crest of the Sierra Nevada two miles south of Mount Whitney and on the boundary of Sequoia National park.

Britain Hopes to Ease

War Workers' Shopping

LONDON. — To help women war-workers who have no time for shopping during the week stores in Britain may decide to serve only war-workers on Saturday afternoons.

They would have to show their factory passes before being served. This is the idea of Miss G. M. Cross, welfare officer at the ministry of health.

She is trying the plan in the London area. The food control committee agreed to help and sent out 2,000 letters to shopkeepers asking for their support. If the shopkeepers agree Miss Cross will try to put over her idea in other parts of London and then in the North.

"The idea is to make certain that women war-workers can go shopping once a week if they want to," said a ministry of health official.

Losers 14 Lbs. in Week

To Serve With Brother

NEW YORK. — A feature of the brisk enlistments here into the armed services was the swearing in of a 17-year-old youth who was 14 pounds overweight when he applied a week previously.

The too-heavy recruit was Donald Covert of Ronkonkoma, L. I., a son of Lieut. Comdr. Graham Covert, now on active fleet duty. Donald and his twin brother Eugene appeared at marine corps enlistment headquarters and Eugene was accepted. But Donald, who is six feet tall, had too much "beef," so he went home, dieted and worked off enough weight to enable him to enlist.

That Mosquito's Worse

Than Bite of Lovebug

WASHINGTON. — Romantic U. S. soldiers stationed in Caribbean sea ports should do their courting behind screen doors, Dr. Ernest C. Faust of Tulane university advises army doctors. It's bad enough to be bitten by the lovebug, but the malaria-carrying mosquito has a sting just as bad. Fly swatters may become standard courting equipment, along with guitars.

A BUSY SABBATH IN CAPERNAUM

LESSON TEXT—Mark 1:21-34.
GOLDEN TEXT—I was in the Spirit on the Lord's day.—Revelation 1:10.

The Sabbath of the Jew and the Lord's Day (Sunday) of the Christian were both intended to be days of rest. The ordinary activities of life were to cease and one was to be free to worship and to rest. The manner in which a man uses this God-given day of rest is a remarkably accurate indicator of his spiritual condition.

We have before us the account of a very busy Sabbath day which our Lord spent in Capernaum, the city in which most of His mighty works were done, but which ignored Him and His teaching to its own destruction (see Matt. 11:23, 24). As we look at our Lord's activity on that day we learn what we may do with our Sundays to make them bear fruit for eternity. We find Him in three places.

I. In the Church (vv. 21-28).

The Sabbath day found our Lord with His people in the synagogue, their place of worship. The service of worship was probably formal and lacking in spiritual vitality, but none-the-less He was there. What have we to say if we miss the opportunity for fellowship and service which church attendance brings us?

Observe that because He was there He (as a distinguished religious teacher) was called upon to teach the people. He taught them in the serene consciousness of His divine authority, and the people were delighted and astonished at His message. We may not serve exactly as He did, but if we present ourselves in God's house on His day we will find the way opening for us to share in the worship.

Jesus not only spoke, but He performed a miracle. Certain it is that we could not do what He did, but we can be ready to give ourselves in service as well as in worship, or in speaking. There is much work to be done in the church, and God's people should be ready and willing to do it.

II. In the Home (vv. 29-31).

From the synagogue Christ went into the home. How appropriate! We too should go from the church to the home, always bringing with us the strength and blessing of the worship service.

The daughter of a great preacher and Bible teacher said the thing she most loved in her father was that he did not give out the "cream" of his Christianity in his meetings and bring home the "skim milk." Too often we fail to bring into the home the power and beauty of the service in the church. We who have been very sweet and spiritual in the church should not come home to be sour and crabbed.

Jesus brought a blessing into Peter's home, miraculously healing his mother-in-law of a great fever, setting her free to serve. Here again we cannot do what He did, but we can, in His name, bring power and blessing into our homes.

III. In the City (vv. 32-34).

From the home the ministry of Jesus reached out to the entire city. As the strict laws forbidding travel on the Jewish Sabbath were set aside by the coming of sundown, not only the city but the entire countryside brought their sick and needy to Him.

The scene staggers the imagination as one attempts to conceive of this coming together of troubled humanity for the Master's touch. Mark tells us that He healed many; Matthew, that He healed all, and Luke, the physician, is emphatic in saying that He healed every one of them.

We may learn from this incident that our Christian faith, which has been developed and strengthened by our time of worship and service in the church, should not only reflect itself in the home, but should reach out into the life of the community in which we live. The primary interest of the Christian in his city or the place of his residence should be spiritual, a desire to bring to bear upon the people of the community the power of the gospel.

There is, however, a secondary responsibility which is of much importance and that is the extending of Christian influence into every phase of school, social, political, and business life. It is said that when D. L. Moody came into a barber shop the entire course of the conversation changed. The Christian should have an influence on problems of social welfare, the work of the public schools, the proper conduct of business in the community, and surely upon its political life. It is said that if every Christian in America would vote according to his professed convictions we could put the saloons out of business in a single election. Why not do it?

By L. L. STEVENSON

Frustrated: Mary Roberts Rinehart's granddaughter, who is named after her grandmother, is a New York air warden who takes her duties seriously despite the fact that ordinarily she is meek and retiring. When the first air-raid alarm was sounded, she was on the job immediately. Air-raid wardens have instructions to stop busses and clear them of passengers. Miss Rinehart attempted to do so, but bus drivers paid no attention to her. Discouraged, she finally decided to look around for the humblest, oldest, non-resistant she could find. Her gaze lit on an elderly woman and she rushed up, displayed her arm badge and said, "You'll have to get off the sidewalk and step into a building under cover."

The old woman looked at her blankly and replied, "No speak English."

Then she walked away leaving the defeated Miss Rinehart staring blankly.

Business: When that first alert came New Yorkers quite generally, instead of taking cover, hurried to the nearest telephones to call up families and friends. In Times Square, the congestion was such that there were long lines not only within, but also outside cigar and drug stores. One enterprising gentleman, evidently in a great rush, finding himself at the end of a long line, hurried up to the man nearest the booth and offered him a quarter for his place. There was a shake of the head. Then the hurried one made the same proposition to the second, third and fourth. At that point, there being no indications of a sale, he went back to the end of the line—and found himself about 15 places farther to the rear than he had been before the seemingly bright idea had occurred to him.

Preparedness: Up near Brewster is a summer colony known as Peach lake where a number of New Yorkers spend the warm months, but which they seldom if ever see during the winter in ordinary times. Right now the owner is busily installing oil burners and making cottages as weather proof as possible. These cottages are being rapidly rented to New Yorkers who fear air raids. Reports have it that the same thing is happening in numerous other summer resorts along the Eastern seaboard. It would seem that there is less chance of being bombed in New York city than in contracting pneumonia in a summer cottage when the mercury goes down and down and bitter breezes blow, but that is merely a matter of opinion. Nevertheless, we are sticking to the eighteenth floor practically in mid-Manhattan.

Ear Rest: Until several hundred large sirens, which can be heard all over the city, even with windows closed, have been installed, New York is depending largely on fire apparatus sirens for its alerts. Because of this, engines and other equipment do not use their sirens in responding to fire alarms but, as was the case in olden days, depend on bells. The result is some relief to noise-harried New Yorkers. It has never been quite clear to me why sirens, audible a mile or more, should be necessary on city streets. But they were used until the present emergency came and thus the, ruining of many a pleasant dream by ear-piercing screams in early morning hours.

Demand: Clipping bureaus, so one of this department's scouts reports, are doing such a rushing business that some have raised rates. World War No. 2 is the reason. The war has brought into existence a large number of relief and other agencies which employ press agents. Some press agents are paid by the clip and all like to show their employers large bundles as evidence of their ability to place stories. Hence clipping bureaus have had to enlarge staffs and are working overtime.

End Piece: Sou Chan, boniface of the House of Chan, recently took a bride. Before his marriage, he asked his friends to make donations to the Chinese War Relief fund rather than give wedding presents. David Dubinsky, head of the Lady Garment Workers union, a close friend of Chan, led the list with a contribution of $2,500.

"More healthful"

"A thousand dollars couldn't buy our humidifier if we thought we couldn't get another. No more squeaky floors—no chapped skin—more healthful living. Furthermore, it costs very little to operate."

"Comfort and pleasure"

"The Republic Humidifier has made a great difference in our home. The added humidity is making our home more comfortable in cold weather. We find less tendency toward colds and skin dryness. The rugs, draperies and floors also seem to remain in better condition."

PAUL O. DITTMAR
2815 Colfax Street, Evanston, Illinois

Winter air contains less moisture than summer air, even before it is dried out further by the artificial heat in your home. No wonder, then, that your house is "thirsty" in winter—it is getting far below the normal supply of moisture required for comfort. Doors shrink, floors warp and creak, furniture comes apart at the joints, book bindings deteriorate, rugs and draperies lose resiliency. In fact, you and your family are made to suffer—because parched air gives you an uncomfortable "stuffy" feeling.

The scientifically-designed Republic

Humidifier has been thoroughly tested by our engineers for maintaining proper humidity in winter months throughout the entire home. It supplies as much as 11 gallons of moisture a day in the form of an invisible vapor. There are no pans to fill : : no sprays or steam jets to worry about. It's a simple, self-contained, gas-operated device that works automatically and independently of your regular heating unit.

This Scrap on Our Hands

Five hundred pounds of scrap rubber are needed for every medium tank. A battleship may contain as much as 9,000 tons of scrap metal. Ten thousand tons of waste paper will be needed this year to make ammunition containers alone. Three miles of copper wire go into a modern bomber.

Facts like these make it clear why we Americans must begin to save materials as we never have before. Government officials say that salvage operations will play an important part in winning the war. Our industries are expanding at such a rate that they will need vast quantities of scrap to keep them going full blast, making weapons, and it's up to us to see that they get it.

Salvage campaigns are being organized throughout the country to gather material of this kind. Every one of us can help in these collection drives. Every one of us has scrap of some sort that he can contribute. If you've been saving things just in case they might come in handy, they might come in handy now for Uncle Sam. And if you haven't been saving, now is the time to start.

One America

"We face a period of consumer rationing of every article which requires an appreciable quantity of strategic raw materials.

"We've barely begun to sacrifice, and while it may find us soft at first, we've come from strong forebears, and there is no fear in my mind that Americans can take it."

That's straight talking, and it comes from William

P. Witherow, President of the National Association of Manufacturers, a man in the position to know what he's talking about. In a recent speech he warned us Americans of the trials ahead, and he called for unlimited cooperation "in deed, in fact, and in every action" to meet the test.

"Half-baked sophistries must be out for the duration. This war is no pink tea or social bazaar. . . . "Speed of production is the essence of victory. The rules of the game can not be changed if we are not to encourage defeat. . . .

"For us there is just one America, and as one people we must protect that land of free men against the encroachment of enemies of freedom—armed or otherwise—so that these United States and all they symbolize may endure for us and our posterity."

American Anniversary

What are we Americans fighting for? We read a lot these days about our way of life and the necessity of preserving it. But what is our way of life? What does it mean in terms of those little every-day liberties that we all know, and sometimes all forget? Here in America freedom is as familiar to us as the homes we knew as children, and, like safe and trusting children, we often take it for granted, not thinking what it means.

Without showing a tank or a bomber, a map or a battle, a new movie that has just been released brings home the meaning of this freedom that Americans are sweating, fighting and dying to preserve. Called "American Anniversary," it traces 20 years in the life of an immigrant who, like so many millions before him, came to America and was able to work himself up to a position of dignity and respect in his town.

The picture, which was made by the National Association of Manufacturers, dramatizes the simple rights and opportunities that our system of democratic government and free enterprise makes possible—rights and opportunities that have made America a legend of hope for oppressed people everywhere, rights and opportunities that we must make up our minds to preserve, no matter what the cost.

Explosives Ahead Of World War Peak

Capacity of U. S. Plants Is Increasing Steadily.

WASHINGTON. — United States plants are already producing more explosives than were made at the peak of production in the last war, and further capacity is under construction, according to traders in the chemical field, who said that vast quantities of chemical materials normally used for production of civilian goods of all kinds were now being devoted to powder output.

Toluol, basic ingredient in trinitrotoluol, the famed TNT, is being made synthetically from a petroleum base in two large plants erected specifically for the defense program, and chemical experts said that it had been expected originally that these plants, together with others under construction, would supply all the toluol needed.

Recently, however, largely because of lease-lend shipments to anti-Axis powers, the United States government has called upon the natural toluol industry to turn over 70 per cent of its production for explosives. Toluol is a by-product of coal, and is derived from the coke-oven process of steelmaking.

A large part of recent purchases have gone to Russia for processing in explosive plants.

Russia also has taken large quantities of picric acid for production of explosives. This material, which we used in large amounts in World War I for explosives production, was diverted to other uses during the peace interval, and its use here for explosives was not resumed because we have turned to use of smokeless powder. Principal use of picric acid here has been in production of plastics.

Sequoia Peaks Receive

Names of Scientists

PORTERVILLE, CALIF. — The names of four renowned scientists have been given to major features in the Sequoia National park.

J. E. Elliott, park supervisor, said the U. S. board on geographical names approved national park service recommendations for naming the features.

Four of the names were given to mountain summits, all more than 13,000 feet high, none of which is more than three miles from Mount Whitney, highest point in the United States. The summits were named Mount Chamberlain, Hale, Newcomb and Pickering in honor of the famous scientists.

George Ellery Hale, for whom one of the features was called, organized the Kentwood, Yerkes and Mount Wilson observatories.

A high elevation between Rock and Golden Trout creeks in the park was named Boreal Plateau because plant life on the high, wind-swept area is similar to that found in the Arctic regions.

Britain Hopes to Ease

War Workers' Shopping

LONDON. — To help women war-workers who have no time for shopping during the week stores in Britain may decide to serve only war-workers on Saturday afternoons.

They would have to show their factory passes before being served. This is the idea of Miss G. M. Cross, welfare officer at the ministry of health.

She is trying the plan in the London area. The food control committee agreed to help and sent out 2,000 letters to shopkeepers asking for their support. If the shopkeepers agree Miss Cross will try to put over her idea in other parts of London and then in the North.

"The idea is to make certain that women war-workers can go shopping once a week if they want to," said a ministry of health official.

Loses 14 Lbs. in Week

To Serve With Brother

NEW YORK. — A feature of the brisk enlistments here into the armed services was the swarming in of a 17-year-old youth who was 14 pounds overweight when he applied a week previously.

The too-heavy recruit was Donald Covert of Honkonkoma, L. I., a son of Lieut. Comdr. Graham Covert, now on active fleet duty. Donald and his twin brother Eugene appeared at marine corps enlistment headquarters and Eugene was accepted. But Donald, who is six feet tall, had too much "beef," so he went home, dieted and worked off enough weight to enable him to enlist.

That Mosquito's Worse

Than Bite of Lovebug

WASHINGTON. — Romantic U. S. soldiers stationed in Caribbean sea ports should do their courting behind screen doors, Dr. Ernest C. Faust of Tulane university advises army doctors. It's bad enough to be bitten by the lovebug but the malaria carrying mosquito has a sting just as bad. Fly swatters may become standard courting equipment, along with guitars.

A BUSY SABBATH IN CAPERNAUM

LESSON TEXT—Mark 1:21-34.
GOLDEN TEXT—1 was in the Spirit on the Lord's day.—Revelation 1:10.

The Sabbath of the Jew and the Lord's Day (Sunday) of the Christian were both intended to be days of rest. The ordinary activities of life were to cease and one was to be free to worship and to rest. The manner in which a man uses this God-given day of rest is a remarkably accurate indicator of his spiritual condition.

We have before us the account of a very busy Sabbath day which our Lord spent in Capernaum, the city in which most of His mighty works were done, but which ignored Him and His teaching to its own destruction (see Matt. 11:23, 24). As we look at our Lord's activity on that day we learn what we may do with our Sundays to make them bear fruit for eternity. We find Him in three places.

I. In the Church (vv. 21-28).

The Sabbath day found our Lord with His people in the synagogue, their place of worship. The service of worship was probably formal and lacking in spiritual vitality, but none-the-less He was there. What have we to say if we miss the opportunity for fellowship and service which church attendance brings us?

Observe that because He was there He (as a distinguished religious teacher) was called upon to teach the people. He taught them in the serene consciousness of His divine authority, and the people were delighted and astonished at His message. We may not serve exactly as He did, but if we present ourselves in God's house on His day we will find the way opening for us to share in the worship.

Jesus not only spoke, but He performed a miracle. Certain it is that we could not do what He did, but we can be ready to give ourselves in service as well as in worship, or in speaking. There is much work to be done in the church, and God's people should be ready and willing to do it.

II. In the Home (vv. 29-31).

From the synagogue Christ went into the home. How appropriate! We too should go from the church to the home, always bringing with us the strength and blessing of the worship service.

The daughter of a great preacher and Bible teacher said the thing she most loved in her father was that he did not give out the "cream" of his Christianity in his meetings and bring home the "skim milk." Too often we fail to bring into the home the power and beauty of the service in the church. We who have been very sweet and spiritual in the church should not come home to be sour and crabbed.

Jesus brought a blessing into Peter's home, miraculously healing his mother-in-law of a great fever, setting her free to serve. Here again we cannot do what He did, but we can, in His name, bring power and blessing into our homes.

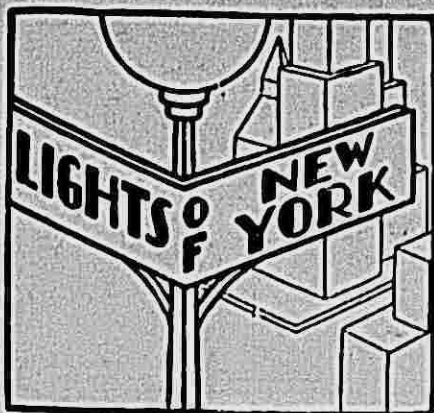

III. In the City (vv. 32-34).

From the home the ministry of Jesus reached out to the entire city. As the strict laws forbidding travel on the Jewish Sabbath were set aside by the coming of sundown, not only the entire country, but their sick and needy staggered the imagination. He attempts to conceive of coming together of troubled humanity for the Master's touch. Mark tells us that He healed many; Matthew, that He healed all, and Luke, the physician, is emphatic in saying that He healed every one of them.

We may learn from this incident that our Christian faith, which has been developed and strengthened by our time of worship and service in the church, should not only reflect itself in the home, but should reach out into the life of the community in which we live. The primary interest of the Christian in his city or the place of his residence should be spiritual, a desire to bring to bear upon the people of the community the power of the gospel.

There is, however, a secondary responsibility which is of much importance and that is the extending of Christian influence into every phase of school, social, political, and business life. It is said that when D. L. Moody came into a barber shop the entire course of the conversation changed. The Christian should have an influence on problems of social welfare, the work of the public schools, the proper conduct of business in the community, and surely upon its political life. It is said that if every Christian in America would vote according to his professed convictions we could put the saloons out of business in a single election. Why not do it?

By L. L. STEVENSON

Frustrated: Mary Roberts Rinehart's granddaughter, who is named after her grandmother, is a New York air warden who takes her duties seriously despite the fact that ordinarily she is meek and retiring. When the first air-raid alarm was sounded, she was on the job immediately. Air-raid wardens have instructions to stop busses and clear them of passengers. Miss Rinehart attempted to do so, but bus drivers paid no attention to her. Discouraged, she finally decided to look around for the humblest, oldest, non-resistant she could find. Her gaze lit on an elderly woman and she rushed up, displayed her arm badge and said, "You'll have to get off the sidewalk and step into a building under cover."

The old woman looked at her blankly and replied, "No speak English."

Then she walked away leaving the defeated Miss Rinehart staring blankly.

Business: When that first alert came New Yorkers quite generally, instead of taking cover, hurried to the nearest telephones to call up families and friends. In Times Square, the congestion was such that there were long lines not only within, but also outside cigar and drug stores. One enterprising gentleman, evidently in a great rush, finding himself at the end of a long line, hurried up to the man nearest the booth and offered him a quarter for his place. There was a shake of the head. Then the hurried one made the same proposition to the second, third and fourth. At that point, there being no indications of a sale, he went back to the end of the line—and found himself about 15 places farther to the rear than he had been before the seemingly bright idea had occurred to him.

Preparedness: Up near Brewster is a summer colony known as Peach lake where a number of New Yorkers spend the warm months, but which they seldom if ever see during the winter in ordinary times. Right now the owner is busily installing oil burners and making cottages as weather proof as possible. These cottages are being rapidly rented to New Yorkers who fear air raids. Reports have it that the same thing is happening in numerous other summer resorts along the Eastern seaboard. It would seem that there is less chance of being bombed in New York city than in contracting pneumonia in a summer cottage when the mercury goes down and down and bitter breezes blow, but that is merely a matter of opinion. Nevertheless, we are sticking to the eighteenth floor practically in mid-Manhattan.

Ear Rest: Until several hundred large sirens, which can be heard all over the city, even with windows closed, have been installed, New York is depending largely on fire apparatus sirens for its alerts. Because of this, engines and other equipment do not use their sirens in responding to fire alarms but, as was the case in olden days, depend on bells. The result is some relief to noise-harried New Yorkers. It has never been quite clear to me why sirens, audible a mile or more, should be necessary on city streets. But they were used until the present emergency came and thus the ruining of many a pleasant dream by ear-piercing screams in early morning hours.

Demand: Clipping bureaus, so one of this department's scouts reports, are doing such a rushing business that some have raised rates. World War No. 2 is the reason. The war has brought into existence a large number of relief and other agencies which employ press agents. Some press agents are paid by the clip and all like to show their employers large bundles as evidence of their ability to place stories. Hence clipping bureaus have had to enlarge staffs and are working overtime.

End Piece: Sou Chan, boniface of the House of Chan, recently took a bride. Before his marriage, he asked his friends to make donations to the Chinese War Relief fund rather than give wedding presents. David Dubinsky, head of the Lady Garment Workers union, a close friend of Chan, led the list with a contribution of $2,500.

The grand opening of the Antioch Opera house, formerly the Wilmot Opera house, was held Friday evening Jan. 22. Among the improvements C. O. Foltz has introduced are the new and wonderful Welsbach lights, which are considered to be more brilliant than electric lights.

The Antioch Bargain house advertises men's heavy woolen socks, 15c; Ladies' fine cashmere hose, worth 35c, at 28c; ladies' fleece lined underwear, 25c; tennis flannel dress goods, at 5c up; linen splashes at half price.

The Milburn Mutual Insurance Co. held its annual meeting, and adjourned to a noon luncheon served by the ladies—chicken pie, turkey, roast pork, apple sass, bread and butter, coffee, tea, pumpkin, mince, cream and apple pie, apples, doughnuts, etc., all for a quarter. One of the most encouraging signs of the return of prosperity is found in the fact that our hustling furniture dealer, J. C. James, Jr., sold over $100 worth of furniture last Monday. In these days of sharp competition quality and price count, and James has the quality and fixes the price right and then lets the people know it through the columns of the NEWS.

"Comfort and pleasure"

"The Republic Humidifier has made a great difference in our home. The added humidity is making our home more comfortable in cold weather. We find less tendency toward colds and skin dryness. The rugs, draperies and floors also seem to remain in better condition."

PAUL O. DITTMAR
2815 Colfax Street, Evanston, Illinois

Winter contains less moisture than summer air, even before it is dried out further by the artificial heat in your home. No wonder, then, your house is "thirsty" in winter—it's getting far below the normal supply of moisture required for comfort. Doors shrink, floors warp and creak, furniture comes apart at the joints, book bindings deteriorate, rugs and draperies lose resiliency. In fact, you and your family are made to suffer—because parched air gives you an uncomfortable "stuffy" feeling.

The scientifically-designed Republic

Humidifier has been thoroughly tested by our engineers for maintaining proper humidity in winter months throughout the entire home. It supplies as much as 11 gallons of moisture a day in the form of an invisible vapor. There are no pans to fill : : : no sprays or steam jets to worry about. It's a simple, self-contained, gas-operated device that works automatically and independently of your regular heating unit.

"Importance of Art Work in Schools" Is Speaker's Theme

The development in young children of both the sense for and the love of colors and the cultivation of their ability in drawing, provide proper groundwork for more advanced studies in art and, more important, help to awaken them to the part art plays in everyday life. Mrs. Ruth Mead of Barrington told members of the Antioch Woman's club at a meeting Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Brogan. Mrs. Mead is art supervisor in the McHenry county rural school system.

In her talk, she pointed out that the teaching of art in the rural schools through the employment of well trained instructors is becoming more and more general throughout the country.

The sense of beauty has played an important part in people's lives in all ages, not only with regard to the great artists, but in more humble ways. Mrs. Mead stressed, pointing out ways in which the schools have recognized the training of this sense as an important part of education.

Assisting hostesses were Mrs. George Bacon, Mrs. John Lyne, Mrs. S. A. Jedele.

Jesus said, "He that is not with me is against me, and he that gathereth not with me scattereth abroad." (Matt. 12:30.) Luke says of Jesus, "This is the stone which was set at naught by you builders. Neither is there salvation in any other: for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved." (Acts 4:11-12.) He also said, "Whosoever shall fall upon this stone shall be broken: but on whomsoever it shall fall, it will grind him to powder." (Luke 20:18.) In John's first letter we read: "As ye have heard that antichrist shall come, even now are there many antichrists. I have not written unto you because ye know not the truth, but because ye know it, and that no lie is of the truth. Who is a liar but he that denieth that Jesus is the Christ? He is antichrist that denieth the Father and the Son. Whoso denieth the Son, the same hath not the Father: he that acknowledgeth the Son hath the Father also." (1 John 2:18, 21-23.) Jesus said, "I am the way, the truth and the life: no man cometh unto the Father but by me." (John 14:6.)

In the prayer of Jesus as recorded in John seventeenth, he says, "And this is life eternal, that they might know Thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom thou has sent." This prayer expresses the sole purpose of the Antioch Methodist Church. PRAYER AND THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Contributed by the Baha'i Group.

"Prayer is the Key by which the doors of the Kingdom are opened."

"O God, refresh and gladden my spirit. Purify my heart. Illumine my powers. I lay all my affairs in Thy hands. Thou art my guide and my refuge. I will no longer be sorrowful and grieved. I will be a happy and joyful being. O God, I will no longer be full of anxiety, nor will I let trouble harass me. I will not dwell on the unpleasant things of life."

"O God, Thou art more friend to me than I am to myself. I dedicate myself to Thee, O Lord."

By 'Abdu'l-Baha
"The reality of man is his thought, not his material body. The thought force and the animal force are partners. Although man is part of the animal creation, he possesses a power of thought superior to all other created beings."

"If a man's thought is constantly aspiring towards heavenly subjects, then does he become saintly; if on the other hand his thought does not soar, but is directed downwards to center itself upon the things of this world, he grows more and more material until he arrives at a state little better than that of a mere animal. Thoughts may be divided into two classes: Thought that belongs to the world of thought alone. Thought that expresses itself in action."

The wrong in the world continues to exist just because people talk only of their ideals, and do not strive to put them into practice. If actions took the place of words, the world's misery would very soon be changed into comfort."

SOYBEAN SEED GROWERS WARNED OF SOIL ROBBERY

C. L. Kutil, Ag. Teacher, Advises Indirect Fertilization

(By C. L. Kutil)

Many farmers do not realize that legumes cut for hay or soybeans harvested for seed are soil robbers.

There are several reasons for this lack of information. Legumes plowed under or cut for hay and the manure therefrom returned to the soil increase the soil nitrogen and thus increase the yields on the following corn and grain crops. In this way legumes behave as soil-building crops only when the whole crop is returned to the soil directly or in the form of manure.

On the other hand, if the hay is sold or the soybean seed is sold, much fertility is lost and the soil will be depleted. For instance, in 1940 the state of Indiana harvested 814,000 acres of soybeans for seed. The 10,989,000 bushels of soybeans threshed contained 8,240,000 pounds of phosphate mineral and 10,900,000 pounds of potash mineral. When sold, it would mean that 319 thirty-ton carloads of phosphates and potash left that state in one year. This does not take into consideration the lime and other minerals that would also be lost.

If farmers sell the soybean seed crop or market soybean hay, they must in time return the fertility lost.

Experience has shown that soybeans do not respond very well to direct fertilization, therefore, fertilizer must be applied elsewhere in the rotation, preferably to the grain crop. Apply a liberal amount to the grain seedling. It will benefit your new hay seedling if the grain is used as a nurse crop. Later when soybeans are planted they will do better because the soil will be in better condition to grow them.

First of all, if the soil is acid, lime should be applied this winter. Apply according to acidity present. Then apply about 300 pounds of 0-20-20 fertilizer per acre, so as to replenish the phosphates and potash lost.

If fertilizing grain, this is best applied on top of the ground and disked or harrowed in. If you must fertilize the soybean crop, then it is best to spread the fertilizer on top of the ground and plow it under. Be sure not to use any further fertilizer when planting. Fertilizer is very injurious to the tender new shoots of the sprouting soybean when applied in direct contact with the seed.

This article is not written to discourage farmers from growing soybeans, rather to inform them of the needs of the crop to grow it successfully and yet not wear out the land.

The Observer

Some revising and remodeling is being done on the office at King's Drug store. By the way, we hear the drug stores and eating places that used to be their high school days hang-outs were the scenes for reunions when the college students were home for their inter-semester vacations . . . and talking about the dear old days when they were young, no doubt.

Everyone seems to be enjoying this spring-like interludes in the weather pretty distrustfully—just shuddering at the prospect of having them broken up by a blizzard or somepin.

Betty Lou Bauer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bauer, is ill at her home with mumps, which are tough on her bowling as well as her school work. . . . Last week Betty, who is nine years old, bowled two games with scores of 169 and 163. . . . While lots of grown-up guys looked kind of enviously at her scores and wondered of she hadn't ought to take the place of some of the gents in the league teams, or the all stars or something. . . .

Gee wiz, we give up. We dunno no more.

Births

GAS SERVICE STATIONS AGREE to EARLY CLOSING

Starting Monday, February 9, gas service stations of Antioch and vicinity will close daily at 7:00 p. m. except Saturday when they will remain open until 9:00 o'clock.

This was the unanimous decision of gas service station operators at a meeting held Wednesday night at Antioch village hall.

Early closing is a measure for the conservation of power as an aid to national defense. We ask the co-operation of the public.

Voice of the Reader

"Let 'em Fight"

I have just read an editorial in the Chicago Tribune dated Jan. 27, 1942, entitled "Coddling Hoodlums," regarding the recent escapes at the St. Charles Boys' Home.

First let me say that the Home was originally founded on the principles that have been so successfully followed by that benevolent person known to the world as Father Flannigan at Boy's Town. There are the two extremes of the policy of Help for the Delinquent.

The fault for the sordid conditions at St. Charles, may first be dumped into the laps of the judges in the Courts in the city of Chicago, they have made St. Charles what Chicago was in the days of the Bootleg and Gangster era.

There is no segregation there, the toughest of hoodlums from the city mingle with the little fellow who is only a first offender, who still may be saved providing he is not allowed to stay there more than overnight. There too is a question of unfairness, to place the little fellow who is the product of a broken home, or perhaps has become delinquent at school through disinterest and maybe lack of companionship on the part of an adult, for every inmate, there is somewhere along the line some one responsible who has neglected a duty. Some one who was too busy or didn't care enough to stop and give a weaker soul a moment of confidence. Then there is the shirking of duty on the part of employees of the home, recently, last summer to be exact, I attended a Homecoming at which the band from the Home played a concert of music, as they were on the march in the parade, the boys would stop playing to snipe a cigarette butt that had been discarded by a bystander, under the eyes of the attendants, when the matter was called to his attention what was his answer? "I am only paid to watch them while they are in the bus. It is now the leaders' duty to watch them." ... Fine ... there lies a great deal of the trouble, the attendants do nothing but what they are paid for, and likely you think as I do, perhaps they do not always do what they are paid for.

It seems to me, all the attacks have occurred, all of the murders that have been committed both within the walls and without, in the homes of those who befriended the delinquents and tried to make a home for them signify that those fellows want to fight. Good enough! We know a man who is looking for fighting men, that is Uncle Sam. Give those fellows of 16 and over a full day of training, give them the routine that is given to the Marine who goes to Parris Island. Train him for hours on end, then give him his off hours to polish his equipment, to do his own laundry and all the duties that a real soldier must know and don't spare the drill. They won't have the energy left at night to plan escapes. They will not need a 17 foot electric fence strung around the school, they won't leave on their own power for they won't be able to get that far.

Form them into a company of their own. I do not advocate their association with draftees or enlisted men, but let them fight, teach them how. Nine out of ten of them can take a gun apart and assemble it again in a few minutes time. They are anxious to kill. O. K. Let them try out their barbarous methods on the Japs and other Axis powers who fight with the same technique. Clean out the prisons, send them in there, and spare some of the boys who have families dependent upon them. Recall Loch and Leopold who concocted one of the horribles of all crimes in the middle west. They were University students, they could learn war very easily. I am not merely suggesting this without a thought to the tremendous task that this would present, to re-regiment these criminals successfully. That headache could be shouldered by some of the dollar a year and ten dollar a expense men. I am only a dollar a and a ten dollar a year wage

A TAX PAYER,

A Tribute

We have lost a friend, and a good neighbor.

He was a little kindly man who lived and let live for he believed in the golden rule.

There are few homes that have not been touched by the sorrow that has come to the Wiles Home at Camp Lake, in the passing of Major Wiles. There are thousands who have felt his influence, his wisdom of advice, his sunny smile and his great kindness have reached many of the underprivileged of the metropolitan cities including men, women and children. He has helped to smooth the pathway of many who felt alone, heartsick and afraid.

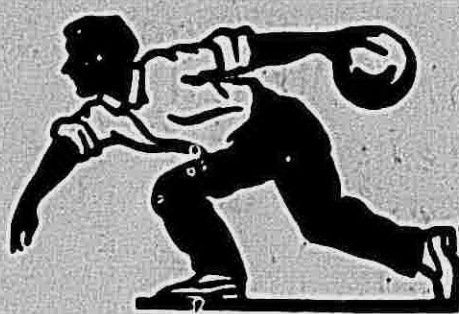

The beautiful Summer Camp which has been his home for the past 17 years is quiet today as though the birds and animals in the zoo even feel the great loss, they stand about waiting and listening for that step and that voice that is gone Home to his maker. They, as do we neighbors find it difficult to realize that "Ma" as we fondly nicknamed him will not be with us again.

His name may not be listed in Who's Who in the nation but in the hearts of those who knew him he will never be forgotten as a good friend, a fine neighbor who followed the golden rule and in doing so has made living richer and more worthwhile.

He was truly a good soldier and although he has fought a losing fight for many months, until his last breath his life was one of service to God. He

Dairy products are easily contaminated. To protect the family's health, milk should be kept constantly covered in spotless containers and at a maintained temperature of no more than 50 degrees. Expert in MurdersPulls Suicide Leap

NEW YORK. — Abbe ("Kid Twist") Reles, racketeer whose confessions sent two members of Murder, Inc., to death in the electric chair, committed suicide.

Reles, who was one of the leaders of the murder syndicate which was responsible for more than 80 gang killings, jumped from a sixth-floor window.

Wife Uses Bayonet To Rout Intruder

World War Weapon Efficient In Hands of Woman.

PHILADELPHIA. — An intruder whom Mrs. Evelyn Moore found seated in her home "taking inventory," jotted down in his little notebook such items as "1 radio, 1 lamp, 1 parrot . . ."—but failed, to his subsequent grief, to note 1 bayonet standing in a corner of Mrs. Moore's living room.

For when Mrs. Moore, who had been working outside the house, stepped into the room and found him there she seized the bayonet and thrust it vigorously into the intruder's thigh.

He left, howling with pain, and Mrs. Moore summoned police.

As she described her unexpected encounter with the inventory-taker, Mrs. Moore removed blood stains from the weapon. Blood covered it from its point to a spot about three inches higher, toward the hilt.

"When I walked into the room," she explained, "he was sitting there with a pencil and notebook. He said he was taking inventory. Then he flashed what might have been a badge — he did it so quickly I couldn't make sure what it was.

"It was when he put down '1 parrot' that I really saw red. I love Polly. So I grabbed the bayonet and let him have it. Boy—I didn't miss."

Mrs. Moore said "the man" drove away in an automobile.

"I don't know who he was or why he came," she added. "I don't owe anybody anything."

Mrs. Moore's husband, William, a former policeman who is now a mechanic, picked up the bayonet on a French battlefield while serving with the 108th field artillery in the World war.

Police notified all hospitals to be on the alert for a man applying for treatment of a three-inch-deep bayonet wound.

This Experience SurelyEnough to Cause Shakes

CHICAGO.—From 8 p. m. to 4 a. m. Detectives Leo Mikell and Leonard Kreusler cruise about the city. They wear plain clothes, and drive in Mikell's automobile. They are on a special detail, always watching for persons whose behavior is suspicious.

Seventeen minutes before their shift ended they saw another car pass in Marine drive at Carmen avenue. Because the car's license plate was tilted, the policemen stopped it. Three men were inside.

"Give us a pass, copper," said the driver. "We're rushing a sick man to a hospital."

His statement appeared correct. In the rear seat sat a middle-aged man, his body shaking as if with palsy. Mikell, who stood by the rear door, was about to wave them on, when he heard a strange tinkle.

The tinkle came from the region of the shaking man's stomach. Mikell looked closer and observed a coin changer, bouncing in tune with the shakes. Mikell and Kreusler drew their guns.

The palsied man ceased trembling, identified himself as Fred Phillips, 53 years old, attendant in a filling station at 5500 Sheridan road, and the reason for his shakes became apparent. Pressed against his ribs had been a revolver in the hands of his seat companion.

"These men just kidnaped me," stammered Phillips. "Two of their pals are over at the station now, looting it."

The policemen bundled Phillips and the two robbers into their car and sped to the station, but it was empty, robbed of $50 and $100 worth of accessories.

Boy, 9, Leaves GenerousTrail of Greenbacks

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. — Anyway it was fun while it lasted.

A nine-year-old boy walked into a filling station while the attendants were busy and "borrowed" all the money in the cash register—$400.

Then he strolled out.

Five blocks away he met another boy, age nine, and handed him a $20 bill. The second boy appreciated it so much he told his father, who notified police. The officers immediately started on the trail of the young Santa Claus, who continued his little game.

"Want some money?" he asked everyone he met, shoving a greenback at them.

He got no refusals.

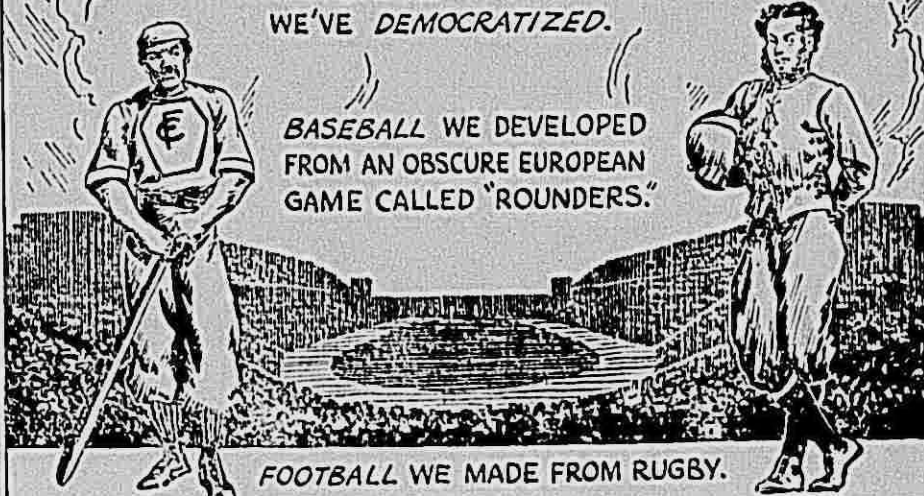

Two hours later the police caught up with the sunshine spender—thanks to his trail of money.

He had disposed of $204.65 and was looking for a likely person to accept the remaining $199.35.

Police turned him over to juvenile authorities for a lecture.

Doggone Nice

When Laddie, a half-bred collie dog owned by Dr. Alby E. Hodgdon, of Needham, Mass., bares his teeth he isn't angry—he's just proud of his bridgework. Nine years ago the dog snapped a tooth gnawing a bone. So his master, a dentist, took impressions of the upper right incisor and in spare time made a solid gold replacement. Dr. Hodgdon says the false tooth is practical because it helps Laddie in eating and also is positive identity in case the dog becomes lost.

'Listen to the Mocking—'

The song called "Listen to the Mocking Bird" is credited to Richard Milburn, a Negro barber of Philadelphia, who was an excellent bird imitator, particularly of the mocking bird. The Philadelphia Library invited him to give an exhibition. At the meeting Septimus Winner, a skilled musician and publisher, induced Milburn to whistle while he wrote down the notes. In 1855 the song was first published with the frontispiece, "Music by Richard Milburn. Words by Alice Hawthorne. Publisher, Septimus Winner." In later years the publisher received credit for being its originator.

Gardenias

Gardenias do not have to be planted in peat. Leaf mold would be better and the addition of a little very fine sand would aid. If leaf mold is not available would use peat, as it is next best material. They are rank feeders and soil should be one-fourth manure if latter is well rotted. But the most important point is to see that drainage is good.

Oat Blast

It has been shown experimentally, say T. Johnson and A. M. Brown, in Scientific Agriculture, that the amount of oat blast is readily influenced by the nutritional conditions of the oat plant from the time the spikelets are initiated until just prior to the emergence of the panicle. Any adverse influence on the normal nutritional conditions of the plant during this period tends to increase the amount of blast. At this stage of growth, the amount of blast has been experimentally increased by (1) reducing the water supply; (2) withholding mineral nutrients; (3) artificially injuring the leaves; (4) leaf injury caused by rust; and (5) growing oat plants under progressively diminishing day-length.

There was no sightseeing for these Axis evacuees from South America as they went through the Panama Canal Zone to the United States. Part of the group of 111 persons, including seven German and seven Italian diplomats, are pictured debarking from the special train which carried them across the isthmus. Uncle Sam took no chances of any Axis sightseeing, which would have been possible had the passage been made by boat.

LUZON:

MacArthur's Fight

Though MacArthur's men were admittedly in a desperate position, it had become evident that he was getting at least some reinforcement, as his latest communications had told of American "fighter planes," and also of the work of PT boat squadrons in Subic bay and at other points, probably near Corregidor.

But it had not been believed that MacArthur's army had any airplanes left, therefore his report that Curtis P-40 fighters had downed a number of Jap bombers led many to think that they might have been flown in there from a distant base.

How many of the Japanese estimated Luzon army of 300,000 was able to get at MacArthur's men in their tiny front on Bataan peninsula was a problem, as many of them naturally would have to be holding the rear and supply lines against constant harassment of guerrilla bands of Filipinos.

RATIONING:

To Increase

Additional rationing was deemed a certainty, with the placing of sugar on a pound-a-week basis.

In fact, it was known that those who controlled the priorities were frowning even on some of the civilian defense activities.

Among these were the "indiscriminate knitting of sweaters," which was said to have a bearing on a possible shortage of wool.

Another was the selling of commodities in tin cans when they could be otherwise packaged or sold in bulk. Among the list was baking powder, beer, biscuits, candy, confectionery, cereals and flour, chocolate and cocoa, coffee, dog food, petroleum products, spices and condiments and tobacco.

Shipbuilders were being asked to design their ships that they could use steel of the type milled for automobiles—somewhat narrower plates.

Leon Henderson would be in charge of retail rationing, and James S. Knowlson in charge of that which occurred in industrial quarters, it was announced.

RUSSIANS:

Find Going Tougher

As the Russians announced that the "last live German" had been removed from Moscow province, and that the invaders in the Rizev area were trapped and doomed, and as they swarmed ever closer to Smolensk, they reported that the Nazi resistance was growing stiffer.

This, the Red high command said, was to be expected, but they drew much cheer from the fact that one victory was following another still, and that the general tactical campaign was shaping up well.

One expert in Red tactics said much credit was being given to a new Russian system of putting fairly heavy artillery into the front line with the infantry.

This, he pointed out, was a bold procedure, but one which the Germans, with nothing heavier than trench mortars in the front line, were finding it difficult to combat.

The Russians have 46 mm. guns and some 76s in the front lines, and though they are not so mobile, they are even being handled by manpower when horses cannot be found to draw them.

These guns fire at point-blank range, and were given much credit in winning the battle of Mzhaisk, a heavily fortified point.

The death toll is terrific in warfare at 40 below zero. Correspondents at the front state that wounded die within 10 or 15 minutes unless kept immediately warm, as their wounds instantly freeze.

The Russians, however, being adept at life under such conditions are reportedly suffering much less than the ill-equipped and prepared Germans.

MACASSAR:

First Victory

Americans had hailed the Battle of Macassar straits as the first definite American victory over the Japanese, worked out in conjunction with the indomitable Dutch.

The action amounted to the virtual trapping of a large Jap convoy in the straits, probably heading for a frontal assault on Java or Sumatra, and its virtual decimation with heavy losses in men and ships for the Nippon forces.

The fight lasted several days, and a number of Japanese warships were engaged by light American naval vessels including destroyers and submarines, and by considerable forces of airplanes.

One of the earliest ships sent to the bottom in the engagement was a Jap aircraft carrier, and if she was not sunk she was immobilized by a direct torpedo hit, and that meant she was useless as a carrier.

This meant instant air supremacy for the American-Dutch forces, and they went to work without mercy. One vessel after another was destroyed and as others were damaged and the Japs attempted to keep their convoy intact by slowing their pace to that of the slowest vessel, they were hopelessly trapped.

It apparently took more than six days for the Japs to negotiate the less than 500-mile journey through the straits, and the toll was upward of 31 vessels.

The engagement showed several things—that strong air reinforcements had arrived from the United States into the area; that they were being deployed effectively to prevent a further southward Japanese invasion of the East Indies; that American naval units, once at grips with the Japs, could give a good account of themselves; that the early toll of two ships a day could easily be enlarged to a deadly amount of shipping, an amount which the Japanese could not lose and continue their pace in the South Pacific.

PRICES:

Bill Passed

The passage of the compromise price control bill, setting ceilings on 74 commodities, brought to a head a situation which now was in the hands of the government, namely inflation of commodity prices.

From this point on it would be a criminal offense to sell anything above the ceiling price.

The senate vote had been at a higher ratio than the house, 65 to 14. President Roosevelt had been expected to name Leon Henderson to the post of price administrator, set up in the bill.

Henderson had been doing what he could along this line from his OPACS office, and had been placed in the War Productions Board under Nelson.

All Henderson's previous work, wherever it did not conflict with the ceilings in the bill, immediately was validated, and became the law of the land, just as though congress itself had announced the ceilings.

Maximum penalties were one year in prison and a $5,000 fine for willful violations of the law.

A fight had been expected against Henderson on the grounds that the former administrator had been close to the President, who himself had been chief critic of the bill.

U-BOATS:

Active in Atlantic

A constant succession of sinkings of American and allied vessels in the north Atlantic, many of them close to the coastline, had revealed that U-boat activity was being pressed to the utmost.

The U. S. navy reports from the eastern ocean had been that their efforts were being redoubled, and that certain successes had been scored. The policy of not announcing U-boat sinkings was being followed, however.

'Over There'

SOMEWHERE IN IRELAND.
—Maj. Gen. James E. Chaney of the U. S. Air Corps, who has been made commanding general of the U. S. army forces in the British isles, is pictured above. He has a high rating as both a combat pilot and combat observer. His headquarters will be "somewhere on the British isles."

REINFORCEMENTS:

For 10 Areas

The arrival of a considerable force of American troops in northern Ireland had been an exciting bit of news which the press leaped on with avidity, and which brought from the White House the statement that this was but one of six, eight or ten areas to which reinforcements had been sent.

Pressing the President for more information, newsmen succeeded in getting the revelation that help is being rushed with all possible speed into the Pacific war theater.

Nothing was said officially about the identity of the Northern Ireland troops, but the fact that a major general was named commander and that his staff included brigadiers led many to believe it was at least a division.

News dispatches from Ireland, passed by censorship, used the words "from their training ground in Louisiana" and the fact that they had come "from midwestern homes," but this was as close to identification as the war department would permit.

President DeValera criticized the sending, said his government should have been consulted, but though President Roosevelt recalled that DeValera was a "warm personal friend," he expressed no sympathy with his viewpoint.

The soldiers were there, reportedly eager for a "crack at the Nazis," and getting accustomed to British fare, living conditions and surroundings.

The President was positive in stating that aid of the strongest sort was being poured into the Pacific theater of the war, and war department estimates of the total manpower of the Japanese in that area was 1,000,000 men.

ROMMEL:

Drive Halted

The counter-drive by Gen. Erwin Rommel's troops in Libya, which had hurled the British back over considerable ground to a former battleground near Bengasi, had apparently been halted with a terrific blast of air power, causing the Germans huge losses.

As Churchill told the house of commons that the German-Italian casualties had been three times that of the British, his cohorts in North Africa had just finished a devastating blow to the Germans, which many believed had halted them in their tracks.

The advance from Agedabia to near Bengasi had found the Germans forced to halt for a time to organize their supply services, and the British took advantage of this respite to do the same.

But the R.A.F. moved forward to attack the supply lines, and reported the destruction of literally "hundreds of vehicles including tanks" and that they had reduced the German rear to "utter and hopeless confusion."

MISCELLANY:

New York: Joseph Lash, friend of Mrs. Roosevelt and one of her proteges, for whom a naval commission had been sought and refused, had been changed from 1-H to 1-A and had not claimed or asked deferment.

Washington: The justice department has ordered the removal of all enemy aliens from vital defense areas throughout the nation.

New York: Discovery of a gigantic plot on the part of the Germans to dispose of diamonds looted in Belgium and Holland in 1940 was made when the government reported a list of indictments against members of several New York corporations. More than $100,000 worth of diamonds already had been disposed of, it was believed.

London: President Roosevelt has received an ornament as a present from the British government. It is of glass, and is composed of fragments of the stained glass windows of parliament, broken by an air raid.

Sequoits Lose First Place By Loss To Barrington

"It can't happen here," but it did, referring to the Antioch-Barrington basketball game at Barrington Saturday night won by Barrington by a score of 43-39 by virtue of a wild last minute scoring spree, after Antioch had led throughout the game and had to all intents cinched the decision by piling up a six-point lead, with but two minutes remaining to be played.

Antioch drew first blood with Jones scoring on a drive under the basket. Barrington knotted the count at 2-2, only to watch Antioch spurt into a 8-2 lead on markers by Fields, Jones and Carpenter. The first quarter ended with Antioch leading 8-5. Led by Zimmerman, Barrington managed to tie the count at 10-10, but once again had to watch helplessly as every man on Antioch's versatile five, including diminutive Tomahawk Brett (Substituting for Sterbenz) scored from the field to lead by a 19-13 score at half-time. In this half Antioch displayed the type of basketball that had forced Palatine into an overtime before they succumbed to the League leaders.

Nursing their lead, and even adding to it, the Sequoits continued their masterful display of ball handling throughout the third period. Chief Barnstable, who had managed only a single basket in the first half, came to life with a vengeance in this period, to spark Antioch's drive with seven points, five of which came via the free-throw lane. Wollar and Zimmerman divided Barrington's scoring for the period between themselves, each hitting twice from the field.

It appeared, as the game entered the fourth quarter with Antioch leading with a 29-21 count, that Coach Wollinbarger's boys had listened to his plea for victory over Barrington, led by Coach Brichard, a former teammate of Wollinbarger's at Southern Illinois university. However, the gods were fickle Saturday night, for after smiling at Wollinbarger all evening, they suddenly switched to Coach Brichard at the last moment, with the result that his boys threaded the net for 21 points in a desperate last-quarter drive. Led by Wollar, Miller, and English, Barrington went berserk in the last few minutes of the game, causing the net cords to smoke, so great was the traffic through Antioch's basket. With 45 seconds to go and the score knotted at 39-39, Barrington was not to be denied: forging ahead on Miller's shot and clinching victory on Zimmerman's free throw to win by a score of 42-39.

Although defeated, the mighty Sequoits could well hold their heads high for it took a superhuman effort to defeat them. After the game Coach McElroy of Palatine was heard to remark that for his money "Antioch has by far the smoothest team in the Northwest conference." However, the defeat was hard to take, for it tumbled the Sequoits out of first place tie with Palatine into a second place tie with Barrington.

Chief Barnstable once again led his mates in scoring with a total of 14 points, eight of which were scored on consecutive attempts from the free throw lane in the second half. Panther Jones played his finest game and contributed 10 points to the Sequoit total. Jack Fields and Art Carpenter played their usual brilliant floor games and scored five and six points, respectively. Two newcomers, George Sterbenz of grillion fame and Tomahawk Brett ably supported their team-mates and were in the thick of the battle whenever they were in action. Sterbenz was especially valuable in capturing rebounds. Barrington's comeback can best be shown by the fact that they doubled their point total in the last period, for they started the fourth quarter with 21 points and ended the evening with a total of 42 points. "It can't happen here," but it did.

Coach Weiss' Papooses were unmercifully taken into camp by the Barrington Lightweights by a score of 40-20. Undermann as a result of the loss of Brett and Kaufman to the first team, and by the illness of Ed Jones, Weiss' boys were at the short end of an 18-0 deficit midway through the second quarter. However, they recovered enough to hold their rivals throughout the remainder of the game, although unable to whittle down any of the 18 point margin. Arwood with 7 points and Ellis with 5 points were the high scorers for the Papooses, while Weirich and Miller, with thirteen and six markers, respectively, were Barrington's leading point getters.

JUDGING RULES FOR TOURNAMENT ARE ANNOUNCED

Decisions in Inter-Class Play Contest Will Be Based on Points

Final rehearsals are in progress for the ninth inter-class play tournament, to be held at the Antioch Township High School Feb. 11 and 12. This year a new point system of judging will be used so that the actor with the smallest part may have an equal chance with one in a major role, providing his characterization is believable. The decisions will be close since it is believed that all four classes may well boast of their histrionic talent and that it will result in the first, second, third and fourth places going to students who have followed all the fundamental rules of good acting.

The coveted Thespian "A" will go to the students who have earned 500 points for hard work, superior acting, and good sportsmanship. The gold cups are presented to students who have acquired 1,000 points and fulfilled exact requirements of "good theatre."

The Swing band under the direction of Hans von Holwege will play during intermissions.

Hawaiian Play Feb. 11

The fourth play on Wednesday night will be "Aloha," the scene being the Hawaiian Islands on Sunday morning, Dec. 7. Idal Maier will sing "Remember Pearl Harbor" as the curtains close on this dramatic story. Thursday evening, Lincoln's birthday, is to be commemorated with the play, "The Spied on Lincoln," a dramatization taken from incidents in diaries and books on Lincoln's life in Washington. The Lincoln children, Tad and Willie, will appear in a play for the first time.

The Curtain Call club can boast of its stage crew and Lloyd Miller, Dortha Drury and Jack Horan are doing more than their share to make this an eventful occasion and with the added urge to do their best for the boys in service.

The curtain will rise promptly at 8 o'clock.

Home Economics Club Sponsors Paper Drive

(By Martha Winch)

"Save waste paper for National Defense" is the slogan of Alice Denman, general chairman, Dolores Morton, Freshman chairman, Alice Harvey, Sophomore chairman, Lura Jean Minto, Junior chairman, and Jennie Neveler, Senior chairman, who are members of the Home Economics club committee to collect waste paper. The girls have placed boxes for used paper in all the rooms and request that, since the club has been unable to obtain a press to compress the paper, the pieces be not crumpled but, rather, laid in FLAT so that they may be banded by hand. Money earned by selling the paper will be put in the club's working capital and used to carry on activities.
